DEFEATED IN BOTH GAMES

That Was the Aggravating Record Made by the Indianapolis Club Yesterday.

Only a Small Percentage Ahead of the Washingtons in the Championship Race-Other League Contests-A Game To-Day.

The Indianapolis team signalized itself by losing two games to its tail-end rivals, the Washingtons, yesterday afternoon. What with the weather, which was so threatening as to cut down the attendance probably one-half, and the umpire, who never before made such unreasonable blunders, and the result of the contest, the afternoon was disappointing enough to local admirers of the sport. About 1,800 people were present by the time the second game started, which was about 4 o clock. The home club had a good lead in both games, and should have won the first one, but lost it all in one inning. The play began at 2 o'clock, and after the visitors had been setired the Indianapolis boys succeeded in making two runs on hits by Hines and Seery, two stolen bases, O'Brien's muff and Glasscock's sacrifice. They still further increased their advantage in the second, when Schoeneck made a hit, went to second on Buckley's sacrifice and scored on Hines's drive against the left-field fence. But there they stopped, not being able to get another man across the plate in the next leven innings.

Washington's run in the third was a gift by the um-pire, although Burdick was also to blame. Wilmot fick. The latter should have thrown to first, but started after Wilmot, who was rnuning home. The started after Wilmot, who was ruuning home. The latter would have been run down, but he deliberately sumped up and hit the ball with his shoulder as it was being thrown by Daily to Denny. He then ran home, and the umpire allowed the run. There was not the shadow of an excuse for the decision. Valentine stood facing the runner, and if he did not see the play must have been asleep. Wilmot jumped fully two feet in order to get in the way of the ball, and everyone on the ground could see the intent of the action. The visitors won the game in the sixth. Hoy was the first batter, and he got his base on balls. Myers went out on a liner to second. A wild pitch put Hoy on second, and Daily advanced him to third by a hit to left. O'Brien batted a fly to short center, which Seery was called to take, but could not reach. Hoy scored on the play. Mack's fly was muffed by Hines, who slipped just before he reached it. This filled the bases, and Donnelly's base on balls forced Daily in and tied the score, besides leaving the bases full. Fuller's liner to left sent in two more runs and gave the tail-enders the game. They added two more to this lead—one in the seventh on Hoy's wo more to this lead—one in the seventh on Hoy's it, a wild pitch, Daily's wild throw and Myers's over the right fence, near the foul line. The loss of the second game was due to the heav y latting of the visitors. Healy wer, into the box with o sore hand, and was somewhat wild. He was given one support, and the Washing ons had to pound out the game. The most interesting feature was the work of young pitcher Keefe, who was in the box for the Eastern team. He is a left-hander, and, judging from yesterday's exhibition, as O'Brien exultantly shouted from first base, a "gennine phenomenon." The runs made off him were due to luck and errors. It would seem impossible, however, for him to maintain the speed that he had for any great length of time unless he pitched only about one game a week. He has a quick, jerky delivery, which is hard on the muscles.

Healy gave Myers his base on balls in the first inning, and followed it up with a wild pitch, which Daily supplemented with a passed ball, the runner etting to third, whence he came in on O'Brien's angle. The Hoosiers went in and made three runs afore a man was out, being assisted by bod luck and a natural nervousness the part of young Keefe. Hines ot a base on balls, and went on the part of young Keefe. Hines got a base on balls, and went to second on a passed ball. Denny hit toward Myers, who fell down, and the Hoosier captain scored a base hit. Seery made a little infield hit and beat the ball to first, Hines scoring, Denny going to third. Seery stole second, and he and the captain scored on Bassett's hit against the right-field fence. Washington field the score in the second on hits by Donnelly and fuller, a passed ball, a sacrifice and a bad error by flasscock, who made it off a difficult grounder, and became so angry over it that he allowed a runner to some in all the way from second.

In the seventh the home team secured a temporary lead, Schoeneck getting his base on balls, and Daily bllowing with a splendid two-bagger, to which Healy added a single. In this inning Fuller began with a two-bagger, and the next three batters pounded out singles. That by Wilmot, however, was due to a missar, Healy stopping the ball and then colliding with the umpire, who was at his usual place behind the lox, which prevented him fielding the ball. The missar may have cost the home club the game, but Valentine was bound to give the batter the benefit of it. Fuch more so should be have given Schoeneck the benefit of a decision in the ninth, when the big fellow drove a liner which hit the umpire in the back. To everybody's amazement, Valentine the back. To everybody's amazement, Valentine sailed the runner out when Myers picked up the ball and threw it to first. The decision was outrageous, unfair and even silly, as the hit would have been good.

NEW YORK, 5; PITTSBURG, 1. PITTSBURG, Sept. 18 .- Pittsburg made a run in the first inning to-day and held the lead until the seventh inning, when Richardson tied the score on his two-bag ger and Galvin's wild throw. In the eighth, however the Giants broke the spell by a fortunate bunching of hits, the first five men hitting safely, and earning four runs. It was a stubbornly contested game through-but, in which the luck was with the visitors, three of their eight hits being somethes. Ewing caught well, although hardly able to walk. Sunday's fielding and Keefe's pitching were the features. Attendance, 1,200. Score:

ST. LOUIS, 15: BALTIMORE, 5. Sr. Louis, Sept. 18 .- The Browns won their seventh successive game to-day, knocking out Baltimore with ease. Walker, who recently shut out the Athletics, faced the champions. Barring White's errors, the champions put up a great game, and supported home two runs before him, was a feature. BROOKLYN, 4; LOUISVILLE, 3. LOUISVILLE, Sept. 18 .- It was a close thirteen inning fight at base-ball this afternoon. Brooklyn was crippled by Caruthers's sickness and Burns being away, and Louisville lacked Mack and had several men new to the home grounds. Two thousand people were out to see the untried players, and applanded their good work. Ewing had the better of the pitching; the batting and fielding was about even. O'Brien was fined $50 for disputing angrily with Gaffney over a clo se decision when Hecker tied the score. Score:

The Strange Thing Mr. Bloom Fancied He Had in His Head-A Railroader's Fancy.

"Yes. I am an engineer," said Henry Bloom to the writer. Mr. Bloom is an old resident of Brightwood, a suburb of Indianapolis, having first located there twenty years ago, and has been employed by the Bee line Railroad Company for nine or ten years.
"I am not much of a story teller," he continued,

"but I can tell you a story, not exactly such a one as you read in story papers or books, but one which will equal any in actual human interest. "I am an engineer now, and worked my way to that point from 'hostler,' or engine-wiper. I always worked about engines and railroads ever since I can remember. My experience has been of the 'hum-drum' sort up to three years ago, when I began to notice that something was wrong. I began to have a queer, depressed feeling come over me; my head ached, my limbs ached and I had aches and pains all over.

"I would catch cold easily. My nose would run freely at times, and at other times it would stop up so that I could scarcely breathe through it. My breath came and went with a as though I was breathing through a sponge! I could not rest well at night and would get up in the morning tired and unrefreshed, feeling worse than after my hard day's labor the night "I had a bad taste in my mouth, especially in the morning, and a sticky, slimy substance would collect about my teeth. My appetite was very bad. The sight of food was distasteful to me. Every morning there was a collection of mueus in my throat which seemed to drop into it during the night. Some times this mucus was of a yellow color, then it would be greenish, with little white lumps which gave off a bad odor upon being pressed; often it was STREAKED WITH BLOOD. "I would hawk and spit this stuff up more or less all day. My head ached most just over my eyes and there was a sense of tightness or fullness right across the bridge of my nose. My eyes, I felt, were growing weak. My ears had queer noises in them, it almost seemed as though there was a minature engine in my head, alternately going, stopping, pumping and blowing off steam.

"I coughed considerable. That, along with a pain in my chest of a sharp, lancinating character extending at times to my left shoulder blade, made me fear that my lungs were affected. In fact several physicians told me that I HAD CONSUMPTION.

"In blowing my nose I would blow out bloody scabs. My heart would beat violently upon the scaba. My heart would beat violently upon the slightest exertion. I would get tired easily. I often worked when I did not feel abis. One must live, you know, even when one is sick.

"I grew gloomy and morose. Life did not have for me the bright, hopeful appearance it had only a few years before. I grew worried and despondent. I tried all the means in my power to gain relief from my sufferings, but was unsuccessful. Not long ago I heard of Dr. Franklyn Blair's (of 203 N. Illinois st.) success with cases like mine, and placed myself under his treatment. My improvement was slow at first, but it was an improvement, and I was thankful for that. Now I don't cough. The pains in my head and chest are gone. I breathe freely, my appetite is good, I sleep well and feel well—better than I have in years."
